

Chiang Mai's own Princess celebrates her birthday

Dr. Chao Duang Duang na Chiang Mai is joined by partygoers as she cuts her birthday cake.

Dr. Chao Duang Duang na Chiang Mai turns 82

The Kodchasri Thani Hotel hosted the birthday party of Chiang Mai's own aristocracy, Dr. Chao Duang Duang na Chiang Mai or Chao Jai as she is often called.

Only about 25 people attended this year's birthday, but there have been also lots of other events and celebrations the same day. Beside the Lion's Club Saraphi and Muang Chamber Chiang Mai, who were hosting the small but fine event, Desjoyaux Swimming Pools, Eden Education Centre, Thailandfriends (Phuenthai German International Organization), Classic Model Chiang Mai and several family members have been present at the event.

JOJO Ongkarn Chaiongkarn, Tananan Willson, Chao Pongdate na Lamphun and Kaewkaw na Chiang Mai who entertained the gathering with singing. While Rapeepun Suonsomijit, Khun Wuttipong from Eden Education Centre and Dr. Dirk Weeber Arayatumsoption led speeches honoring her on her birthday.

Dr. Dirk said, as Chiang Mai is the Rose of the North, Dr. Chao Duang Duang na Chiang Mai is the Lotus of Chiang Mai who will blossom as long as possible.

Dr. Chao Duang Duan na Chiang Mai is the President of the Chiang Mai Culture Council as well and she was honored for her tireless work in promoting Lanna culture.

Designer Tananan Willson sang Seasons in the Sun and the birthday cake was cut as everyone wished her long life and health.

The Chiang Mai Mail team would like to join in offering our birthday greetings to Dr. Chao Duang Duan na Chiang Mai and wish her a long life, good health and further success in her work with the Chiang Mai culture council.

Dr. Chao Duang Duan na Chiang Mai is offered well wishes by her guests including Jojo Ongkarn Chaionkarn and Tananan Willson.
